A total of 2,785.35 miles of roads is included in the construction budget and roads heretofore constructed in the seven divisions of the department calling for maintenance.

JUDGE DECIDES JURY SHADOWING IS OUTSIDE LAW

Says Oil Men's Surveillance Tended To Thwart Justice

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(Associated Press.)—Emphatically declaring the right to shadow a criminal court jury "has no existence in law" and that surveillance of the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy jury had "a tendency to obstruct justice," Justice Frederick L. Siddons today overruled a defense motion to dismiss criminal contempt charges against Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and their four associates.

The government charged that Sinclair, when on trial with Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, for conspiracy to defraud the government by their famous Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease, had employed detectives to shadow the jurors who had his fate in their hands. The oil man in his reply, after mistrial of the case was followed by the criminal contempt proceeding, admitted he had employed detectives to keep the jury under close surveillance, but insisted this was his legal right and not unlawful or in contempt of court.

Today's decision won for the government the most important victory it has yet scored in the contempt proceedings and upheld the contention of District Attorney Peyton Gordon that shadowing alone constituted an offense against the government. At the same time he rendered his decision Justice Siddons made it plain that it had to do only with the motion to dismiss and not with the main issues in the case.

The decision came at the end of a two-hour review of the case by Justice Siddons. He recalled the defense's contention that they had a right to shadow the jury as long as no juror was approached or knew of the surveillance.

"The claimed right to do this thing has no existence in law," said the justice. "In my opinion such a right does not exist."

ROCKEFELLER GOT STEWART TO OIL TRIAL

Standard Oil Head Regrets Witness Did Not Tell All

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(Associated Press.)—The failure of Robert W. Stewart to answer all questions put to him by the senate Teapot Dome committee about the Continental Trading Company has produced a formal expression of regret from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., recognized head of the Standard Oil interests.

Rockefeller's letter to Senator Walsh of Montana, the committee prosecutor and related documents were made public today by Chairman Nye, of the committee, under the oil magnate's specific permission for their use "in any way that will serve the public interest."

In the correspondence was a telegram sent to Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, at Havana, by Rockefeller urging him to appear before the senate committee and "to testify fully."

"No desire to protect others justifies withholding the slightest fact," Rockefeller said in the telegram. "No duty to company or stockholders comparable to your immediate appearance. Only such action will justify the confidence your friends and business associates have in you."

Telegram Changes Mind

It was after the receipt of this telegram that Stewart changed his mind about a business trip to Mexico City from Havana and returned here to testify, only to refuse to answer two questions put by the committee—whether he knew any one who received Liberty bonds from the Continental Trading Company of Canada and whether he had any conversation with Harry F. Sinclair, central figure in the Teapot Dome developments, regarding the disposition of these bonds.

This refusal led to the arrest of Stewart by the senate and the institution of federal court contempt proceedings by that body after the Standard Oil official had obtained his temporary release from custody on a writ of habeas corpus.

On the day the senate issued its warrant, Rockefeller wrote to Senator Walsh, expressing his regret at Stewart's refusal to answer all inquiries.

"I have not felt that Colonel Stewart failed in his duty to his stockholders," the letter said, "but I am sorry that he did not answer all of your questions, for the situation calls for the fullest disclosure of the facts."

This letter from Rockefeller was in response to one written by Senator Walsh on the first day Stewart appeared before the committee in which the senator said the newspapers would advise the oil magnate of "how well your admonition to Mr. Stewart was observed by that gentleman." The committee prosecutor added that he would lay all the correspondence before the committee "to determine whether a faithful discharge of duties imposed on us requires that you be called."

THREE BANDITS KILL COUPLE IN ROBBERY

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8.—(A.P.)—Mrs. Charles Simon, 50, who with her husband was a victim of an attack in their store-home at Vacherie late last night, died here in a hospital today. Simon, also in the hospital, is in a critical condition.

The attacks were made by three men who fractured the skulls of the couple with an iron bar and robbed the store of $250. Three men are being held in St. James parish.

FORMER TAMPAN DIES IN GEORGIA

WAYCROSS, Ga., Feb. 8.—(A.P.)—W. O. Berry, formerly of Richmond, Va., and Tampa, Fla., died here today following an illness of less than a day. Berry, accompanied by his wife and child, came here 10 days ago from Tampa. In addition to his widow and child he is survived by his

JAIL COOK ESCAPES

Robert Moore, negro cook at the county jail, escaped last night by scaling the jail yard wall. Moore had been in jail since April, serving a three-year sentence.

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 8.—(A.P.)—A committee of attorneys appointed by the court today opened an investigation into contempt proceedings against the 12 jurors who acquitted George Remus of the slaying of his wife, Imogene.

HIKER TO FLORIDA GIVEN RIDE FORGES BENEFACTOR'S NAME

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb. 8.—(A.P.)—A man whom he said he picked up and allowed to ride with him on a trip in Florida is charged by W. T. Rowland, prominent local real estate man, with having caused him to have been arrested twice and tried once.

Mr. Rowland was arrested here today for Sheriff W. H. Dowling, of Duval county, Florida, on charges of "uttering worthless checks and grand larceny."

In a petition for a habeas corpus hearing, which was granted, Mr. Rowland stated he had been arrested in Florida on the same charge on a warrant signed by Harry Howell, tried and found not guilty.

Mr. Rowland said on a recent trip to Florida he gave a man named Higdon a ride, charging that Higdon later forged his name to checks and caused the charges to be brought against him.

COURT RULES CONNERS ROAD SALE ILLEGAL

Failure of Legislature To Fix Price Is Blamed

TALLAHASSEE, Feb. 8.—(Associated Press.)—An act considered one of the most important pieces of legislation of the 1927 law-making body was thrown out of the statute books today when the state supreme court held unconstitutional the law authorizing the purchase by the state of Conners highway.

In an opinion covering nearly a dozen pages, Justice J. B. Whitfield, with full concurrence of the court, held that the act and proceedings authorized by it created a "binding continuing interest bearing contract obligation" for the state and that it violated the constitution against such indebtedness.

Justice Armstead Brown in a special concurring opinion, declared that the act was in violation of the section of the constitution prohibiting the withdrawal of money from the treasury except for specific appropriations made by law. He held, however, that the law, in other respects, seemed constitutional to him.

Lower Court Upheld

In deciding that the act is unconstitutional, the court affirmed an order of the circuit court for Gadsden county granting a temporary injunction against the state comptroller issuing warrants for payment of the highway, and in effect, upheld quo warranto proceedings brought by a Jacksonville law firm to test the legality of the act.

The fact, the opinion says, that no limitation is placed upon the authority conferred upon a board of engineers which was to have appraised the highway in fixing an estimate of the amount of money to be paid from the treasury, an estimate not predicated upon value, was "clearly an unlawful attempt to delegate legislative power."

After the board of engineers had appraised the property and reported its estimated worth, a commission also created by the act was to have effected the purchase. It was at these two bodies that much of the litigation was aimed.

Regarding that portion of the act authorizing the comptroller to issue the warrants in payment for the highway, the court pointed out that the final of the series of payments was "without any limit whatever."

Not an Appropriation

"This attempt," the opinion continues, "to confer upon non-official engineers unlimited authority to fix by estimate the amount that shall be paid from the state treasury without audit or approval by any responsible official, is imperative because it violates the intent of section four, article nine of the constitution."

"This is certainly not an appropriation made by law, which is attempted to be provided for by this act," Justice Brown's opinion says. "The legislature writes a bill for an appropriation, leaving the amount blank, and then hands over the pen to a non-official board of appraisers, one of whom represents an adverse interest, and authorizes such board, or any two of three members of it, to fill in the amount of the appropriation."

Conners' highway, a toll road, was built by W. J. Conners, wealthy landowner of West Palm Beach. It touches Palm Beach, Martin and Okeechobee counties.

ROYALL URGES PRESERVATION OF WILD LIFE

Tells Kiwanians Game Is Heritage of Coming Generations

Florida must look to the protection and preservation of fish and wild game which abound in its streams and forests, because of their economic value which should be passed on to future generations, said J. B. Royall, state game and fish commissioner, in an address before the Kiwanis club yesterday at the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Royall said Florida was one of the greatest spots for the production of game in the country and that citizens today should regard preservation of wild life for citizens of tomorrow as an obligation which had to be met.

His speech was one of the features of the program prepared by the agriculture committee of the club. D. Lincoln Orr., secretary and treasurer of the Madison Square Garden Poultry show and a judge of the South Florida Fair poultry exhibit, made an address on the poultry industry, speaking particularly of its adaptability to Florida.

Vast Breeding Ground

There are 4406 square miles of breeding grounds in Florida for the propagation of wild life, a bigger area than exists in any other state, Mr. Royall declared. He said there were 410 species of birds and 650 different kinds of fish in Florida. No other place can equal such a display of wild life, he said.

"And we rightfully should protect these birds, because they in turn protect our agricultural crops from insects," said Mr. Royall. "An immense saving to the farm results from the extermination of insects by the birds. One night hawk will eat 1800 to 3200 insects a day. If the bird life was destroyed, I do not believe Florida farmers could operate successfully for seven years."

The state game commission is striving to get full co-operation of the public in its campaign for game preservation by education, rather than law enforcement, said Mr. Royall. Man's desire to fish and hunt is inbred, and as a bequest to future generations, the state should preserve its wild life.

Drought Dries up Lakes

Due to the shortage of rainfall in the last few months, many lakes throughout the state have dried up, resulting in a shortage of fresh water fish, he explained. The new fish and game protective act passed by the last legislature, however, has served splendidly to keep the waters well stocked.

Mr. Orr declared he did not think there was any other place in the United States where poultry could be produced so profitably as in Florida. The proper methods have not been used to develop the industry, however, as most of the big poultry colonies projected in the state have been mere land selling schemes and were not started with the view of creating interest in chicken raising.

"Floridians should make it a point to buy eggs produced in their own state and not elsewhere," he declared. "There is no reason why Florida eggs should not be in demand in eastern markets, and they should not be priced higher than those from California, either.

"You must keep striving for quality in your egg production, just as you strive for quality in citrus. Quality products find a ready market. They bring top prices and assure profits."

Mr. Orr, who has been a judge at the fair poultry show for the last three years, said the exhibitions were improving each season. Better birds are being shown this year than ever before, he said, and steps should be taken to bar all inferior chickens from the show.
