NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The un- official American trade delegation, which has been studying labor condi- tions in Russia, returned today on the Levizhan.

John Brophy of the United Mine Workers, spokesman for the group, said the report of the delegation would not be ready for two weeks. With him were four of the 10 men who sailed with the delegation last July. At that time William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said the mission did not represent the federation.

In a statement given out by Mr. Brophy it was explained that the de- legation had interviewed labor lead- ers in England, Belgium, France, Holland, Germany and Poland and that a month had been spent in Rus- sia. The party split into five groups in Russia, Mr. Brophy said, to cover the eight principal cities, the indus- trial and agricultural districts.

MAGRUDER ASKED TO SUBMIT PLANS FOR BETTER NAVY

Wilbur Challenges Writer To Make Good On His Criticism.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, com- mandant of the Philadelphia navy yard, was ordered by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur today to submit to the department at once a "plan and detailed statement of his plan for reorganizing the navy and the navy department."

The order was interpreted here as virtually a challenge to Admiral Ma- gruder to prove his charges, recently published in a magazine article, that a reorganization of the navy with a view to economy would result in sav- ings of about $100,000,000 annually.

While Secretary Wilbur refused to commit himself definitely, it was in- dicated that no disciplinary action will be taken against Magruder at this time because of his criticism.

Meanwhile, however, a congress- ional probe of Admiral Magruder's charges of naval inefficiency was practically assured when Senator Claude Swanson (Democrat) of Vir- ginia, announced that the senate naval affairs committee will give the admiral a chance to "tell the facts." He was supported in this by Senator Borah (Republican) of Idaho.

The plan of naval officials to dis- pell Admiral Magruder was aban- doned when he filed copies of his two magazine articles with the depart- ment. It was learned, although they had been previously published. This covered the ruling, however, that articles for publication must be sub- mitted to the department for review. In discussing this phase of the case, Secretary Wilbur said:

"I regret that he did not submit his article before it was published, as it contained mistakes and inaccura- cies which could have been cor- rected. But this will be overlooked. His plan will be studied but I cannot say what action will be taken on it." "I have known Admiral Magruder since 1885 and I have looked up his record, which I found to be an excel- lent one. He has done good work for the Philadelphia navy yard and I am anxious to get the full benefit of any suggestions he has on the subject of naval administration."

Airplane Factory Expert To Make Survey Here.

Construction of the first units of a lighted airway, which ultimately will extend from Miami to Jackson- ville has been started by the Florida Power and Light Company, E. H. Mas- son, chief engineer of the utility company, advised members of the Greater Miami Airport Association at a meeting last night.

Three beacons, the rays of which pierce the darkness for miles are be- ing erected at Miami Beach, Fort Lauderdale and Sanford. They are expected to be completed within 60 days and will be maintained by the power company.

Absence of a lighted airway has handicapped Miami in receiving air- mail service, it was explained at last night's meeting, held in the American Legion building. Commercial lines also have overlooked this city because there have been no guiding beacons, it was said.

"Appropriations for lighting of air- ways have been made by the federal government and funds are available. If Miami completes a suitable site as an official landing field, members of the association have been told.

Possibilities of this section as a site for a branch airplane factory and a service station will be investigated by an officer of the Curtiss Airplane Company next week, a message from Glenn H. Curtiss to the association said. The communication read:

"There has been some talk of the possibilities of an airplane factory here. It is a little too early to start a factory, but a factory branch and service station would be justified when there is an army or navy unit here. The Curtiss Airplane Company is taking a real interest in the Miami section."

The crash, which cost the lives of 33 men of the submarine crew, re- sulted in the indictment on July 14 last of Capt. John H. Diehl, who was in command of the City of Rome when it rammed the submarine. The federal grand jury in Boston charged Diehl with misconduct, negligence and inattention to his duties on the vessel.
