---the city of
OKEECHOBEE

---located on the north shores of Lake Okeechobee---today the inland terminus of all main lines of transportation---is destined to be the metropolis of inland Florida, a center of tremendous commercial and industrial progress.

The spectacular rise and expansion of this beautiful little city, during the past few months is one of the most noteworthy examples of South Florida’s unprecedented progress---and in the face of present plans, past developments are a very conservative forerunner to what may be expected here, during the next few months---and in future years.

It does not require super-vision to see that Okeechobee is a pre-destined business center.
