

ROBINSON BUSY PREPARING FOR SOUTHERN TALKS

Notification Ceremonies To Be Held Tonight

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 29.—(Associated Press)—The eve of his notification as Democratic vice presidential nominee found Senator Robinson of Arkansas thinking more of the campaign ahead than of the formal ceremonies tomorrow.

Occasionally he was interrupted by callers, most of them from Arkansas and many friends of his boyhood days. With these he talked and chatted. Although from the windows by the side of his desk the senator could look down upon the elaborate preparations being made in the little natural amphitheater for his notification he apparently paid little heed to what was going on.

"No News" In the morning conference with press correspondents he said there was "no news" as he had been too busy engaged with preparation of his speech to pay much attention to anything else.

He passed up an invitation for a round on the links late in the afternoon, so as to have his evening free to greet the rapidly growing number of visitors.

Just before luncheon the senator at the request of his friends went to the ladies reception room off the main lobby of the Arlington to meet the guests at the hotel. This was the only time except for luncheon that he appeared publicly in the hall during the day.

Vincent M. Miles of Fort Smith, Democratic national committeeman for Arkansas was among the first arrivals. The senator immediately turned over to him the task of straightening out odds and ends incident to the notification ceremonies and at the same time formally approved the program for procedures for tomorrow night.

Program For Ceremonies Under this program the ceremonies will start at 6 p. m., central standard time with a band concert. At 8 p. m. the preliminary ceremonies will begin. These include an address of welcome by Gov. Harvey Parnell.

Claude G. Bowers of New York, who will formally notify the senator of his nomination will be introduced at 8:30 p. m. at which time broadcasting of the program will start on a nationwide hookup of about 50 radio stations. Bowers' speech will take approximately 10 minutes and Robinson will begin speaking immediately upon its conclusion.

The senator expects to take about 45 minutes to deliver his address.

Wide Radio Hookup The radio hookup for Robinson's address was said tonight by Ted Husing, announcer for the Columbia chain of stations, to be second only to that which carried the acceptance speeches of Herbert Hoover and Governor Smith over the air.

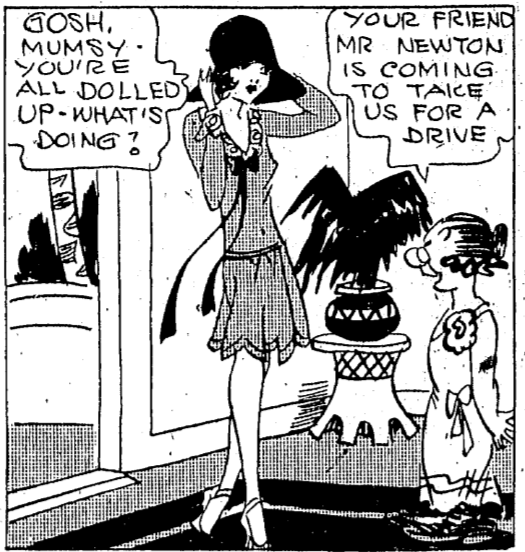

Meanwhile, the city's one main thoroughfare, Bathhouse row, was bedecked from one end to the other with red, white and blue bunting. Each hotel, store and bathhouse conspicuously displayed pictures of Governor Smith and Senator Robinson, while the overhead wires of the

"THE FIRST KISS"

"The First Kiss," starring Fay Wray and Gary Cooper, opens at the Tampa theater today. The story centers around the love of a man of poor state for a girl who is rich. His three brothers are lazy, but having family pride the brother, who is Gary Cooper, forces them to work and sends them to school. How he finances them and how the story is brought to a brilliant climax, provide varied elements of entertainment.

Tomorrow, by proclamation of the governor, has been declared a special holiday throughout the state and it is reported reaching here are correct, nearly everybody in the state intends to utilize the holiday for the purpose for which it was declared—attendance at the notification ceremonies.

Oh These Women!

By LEOA ALLARD NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(Universal Service).—A lady had guests at dinner the other night, out in Denver. They were discussing the subject of men crying. All of the guests said that they never had seen a man really cry.

The canny little daughter of the house, 10 years old, spoke up and said: "I have never seen my father cry but once, and that was at his wedding."

To hear old ladies talk you would think sin was something new, invented and practiced only by the modern woman.

Good when women wear halpins, a yet many of them were found where they had no business to be. And men tripped and fell much more easily on long skirts than on the modern waist ruffle.

The pet abomination of wives is the sneezing husband. These strange sneezing noises have headed many an irritated wife into a divorce court. Well, here is the remedy:

A prominent man thought of it, and he has followed his own prescription for years. Just before going to sleep he sticks a small strip of adhesive tape over his lips. This makes him breathe through the nose, and he doesn't utter a sound all night.

The only trick is to get them to do it.

A woman with a chiffon dress, sitting in her office yesterday, sewing a strip of tiny weights around the bottom of her skirt. It takes such a tiny wind to lift such a light skirt! You buy the weights by the yard.

The woman sewing the weights was 50 years old.

There probably won't be any rush on the weight market.

Two women were chattering at luncheon, in a Fifth avenue tea room. They were giving their private opinions of a man who was the husband of a mutual friend.

It seems the gentleman had an argument with his employer and quit his job. He explained to his wife that he had to quit. His pride demanded the resignation.

And the wife flew into a rage. Her friends were sympathizing with her. The reason was—she bought a beautiful fur coat and now she can't finish the payments on it.

And the ladies all figured that a husband had no right to any pride in a situation like this!

MELLON STATES VIEWS ON LOANS ON U. S. BONDS

Opposes Preferential Discount Rates

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(Associated Press).—Opposition of the federal reserve board to preferential discount rates by federal reserve banks on loans secured by government bonds was contained in a reply by Secretary Mellon to an unnamed clearing house association made public today by Governor Young of the board. It was suggested in the bank's letter that the loans secured by government bonds bear the same rate of interest as the bonds.

Noting that the recommendation of the association for a preferential rate had been laid before the board, the treasury secretary said the legal procedure was for directors of the reserve banks to initiate rates. "When such rates are initiated," he continued, "they are laid before the board for review and determination. While the board undoubtedly has the power to fix rates of discount for reserve banks, we see nothing in the present situation to require such arbitrary action."

Would Be Opposed Secretary Mellon said the board was not attempting to "sidetrack any responsibility it may have for reserve bank discount rates," and added: "We advise your association that if any reserve bank should initiate such preferential rates, we suggest the board would be opposed to such procedure."

He cited six reasons in support of the board's conclusion, as follows: (1)—It would not care to discriminate against commerce and industry by approving a rediscunt rate as low as three and one quarter percent on collateral notes secured by government obligations while simultaneously certain reserve banks would be permitted to charge 5 percent on eligible commercial, agricultural and industrial paper.

Nothing to Justify It (2)—There is nothing in the present situation which would justify a lower rate on one class of government securities over another. The previous action of the reserve banks that you refer to was a wartime measure only.

(3)—If your proposal was put into effect at the present time it would permit a member bank to buy United States bonds in the present market on a credit higher than it could bear and the member bank would be prompted to rediscunt to make such purchase solely for profit.

(4)—Member banks own over four billions United States government bonds, and, upon reflection, we believe your clearing house will agree with us that the invitation for profit would be too great for many of the banks to resist and only result in inflation that eventually would work widespread disaster to our entire financial structure and, indirectly, to the business interests of the country.

Unwarranted Price (5)—The proposed plan would have a strong tendency to appreciate the market value of the outstanding United States obligations bearing low rates and simultaneously depreciate those bearing higher rates, developing artificial and unwarranted price for the various government issues.

(6)—Under normal peacetime conditions the treasury department should and does pay the ordinary market rates for money the same as any other borrowers. Moreover, the credit of the United States government is so good that there is no occasion whatsoever to attempting by artificial means to place United States government securities in a favored position as compared with commerce, industry and agriculture.

100,000 Starving After Haiti Storm

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 29.—(A.P.).—An intimation that outside help is needed for rehabilitation of the hurricane stricken district of Haiti, was contained in a statement issued by President Borno today. The statement said:

"More than 100,000 people are facing starvation in the hurricane devastated area. All animals were killed and entire crops were destroyed. Cultivated farms were either drowned out or completely washed out. It will take from three to six months to grow new crops. The resources of the government are not sufficient to help adequately these unfortunate people. We must rebuild roads and bridges and provide food and shelter."

It was stated that it will be at least three months before it will be possible to obtain food for the stricken area from local sources.

Former Atlanta Woman Seeks Divorce in Reno

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(A.P.).—The Evening Post says that a report that Mrs. Homer W. Orvis, formerly Emma D. Hill of Atlanta has gone to Reno, Nev., to get a divorce from her socially prominent stock broker husband was confirmed today by Mrs. Orvis.

The move to the Reno court, the Post says, follows failure of Mrs. Orvis to get a divorce in October 1927. She was accompanied to her Atlanta home and thence west by her sister Miss Nancy DuBois with whom she had been living here.

Supreme Court Justice Valentine last October allowed Mrs. Orvis $200 a week alimony and $2000 counsel fees pending trial of the divorce action.

Mrs. Orvis charged her husband had been too friendly with another woman in New York while Mrs. Orvis was in Palm Beach.

The court later ruled she did not have enough evidence and refused to grant the divorce.

The train, made up of nine sleepers, two day coaches and a baggage and mail car, was carrying 350 passengers and $2,000,000 in gold representing the semi-weekly shipment from the federal reserve banks in the northern New England area.
