

THINK THIS WILL HELP MIAMI

MIAMI is the real estate capital of Florida. In the opinion of Hugh Sealey of New Smyrna, a town to the city, and like all capital should have somewhat of a plan for conducting its affairs. Mr. Sealey, in the real estate business himself, finds that the greater number of real estate men in Miami conduct different types of brokers and operators than have reached the better centers of the state. After walking down Miami streets in the midst of his affairs, he is convinced that the man who uses the street as a real estate office should not be permitted on the sidewalk. "One almost sent me into a ditch when he became too enthusiastic while I was passing," Mr. Sealey remarked. "The movement of the Miami Real Estate Board and other agencies to eliminate parasites on the real estate market should do a lot of good and deserves support; smaller cities are profiting by Miami's example and preventing any influx of 'shysters'."

MIAMI should have streets wide enough to take care of the millions of people who will come here, Attorney W. C. Jaster, Miami manager for the Thompson & McKinnon Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange.

"The only limit on Miami's possibilities of growth is the number of people that the city is laid out to take care of," Mr. Jaster says. "Wider streets are a necessary feature of a large metropolis."

There is more congestion right now on Miami streets than on the sidewalks of New York," Mr. Jaster continued. "The city is spreading out, and the influx of more people brings about a necessity for moving between the expanding parts of the city. Wider streets and sidewalks will be obtained if provided now, and will be an encouragement to the proper growth of Miami."

WIFE AND HUSBAND. "Do you remember, dear," said Mrs. Hank, "that before we were married you always offered me your left arm?"

"Yes," replied her husband; "I wanted to have my right hand free, but now I had a lawyer's feet some one would try to take you away from me, and I always kept it in readiness for defense."

"How great! But how is it that now you usually offer me your right arm?"

"Well, I am not so afraid as I was!"

Girl Gained 7 Pounds Nine Years an Invalid

"That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the little girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America."

These sugar coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and no tablets cost but so cents at any retail druggist anywhere in America.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength.

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 8 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues, I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market, she is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. H. Hinkle, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine and after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why, get your money back—Advertisement.
