are visited upon the second and third generations, and "THE GOLDEN BEAST," E. Philip Oppenheim's latest and greatest serial story, recognizes that fact, and tells of loves and hates and fears and misunderstandings that result.

"THE GOLDEN BEAST" is one of those entrancing novels of character and action, combined with mystery and love. It is undoubtedly the best story this weaver of ingenious mysteries has yet spun—the cleverest love story offered this year. It has never been printed in magazines—it has never appeared in book form—you will get it FIRST through the Magazine Section of The Miami Daily News.

AND IF YOU ARE SEEKING THE ONE BIG STORY OF THE YEAR YOU WILL WATCH FOR IT IN THE MAGAZINE SECTION NEXT SUNDAY, APRIL 5

DEATHS

MRS. MOLLIE LUX

Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee is among those who have taken the position that after the lapse of so many years there is no reason for agency, and that whatever negotiations are attempted should be in the open. President Coolidge frequently expressed the opinion that while this country had no intention of being a harsh creditor, it was entitled to some explicit word from its advisers as to when and how they meant to take care of their water-logs in the treasury.

DR. HARVEY M. EGOLF

Dr. Harvey M. Egolf, winter resident from Winona, Ind., died at his home at 1644 S. W. Second st., Thursday. He leaves his widow, three sisters, Mrs. M. J. Sitzer, Mrs. Howard McClain and Mrs. Rachel Haddock of Columbus City, Ind., one brother and his sister-in-law, Mrs. George Wilkinson. The Rev. E. R. Madira of the Church of the Holy Comforter, will officiate at the funeral, which was to be conducted from the chapel of the King Undertaking Co. Friday afternoon. The body will be placed temporarily in a vault here, and will probably be sent to his old home later.

HERBERT P. OSBORNE

Herbert P. Osborne, 70 years of age, who came to Miami two weeks ago from Semerville, Mass., died Thursday. His body is being held at W. H. Conable Funeral Home pending the location of relatives.
