

MIAMI-FLORIDA PROJECTS WIN SENATE'S VOTE

Upper House For Outlay of $800,000 On River, $200,000 On Harbor.

$9,000,000 PROGRAM FOR OKEECHOBEE

Measure Passes Without Record Ballot; Quick House Action Seen.

By CLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Herald's Special Washington Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, June 20.—Passage by the senate today of the new rivers and harbors bill opens the way for a number of important improvements in navigation and flood control projects of Miami and south Florida.

The senate retained without revision the two amendments affecting the Miami harbor and the Caloosahatchee-Lake Okeechobee flood control works ordered by the senate commerce committee after the bill came over from the lower house. Due to these and other amendments, the measure now goes to conference between the two houses before being submitted to President Hoover for his signature. Prompt and favorable action is expected in the house.

In addition to the Miami harbor and Caloosahatchee-Okeechobee items, the bill authorized an expenditure of $9,000,000 for the improvement of the Miami river in the interest of flood control and navigation.

Both the Miami harbor and Caloosahatchee-Okeechobee items were amended advantageously by the senate through the efforts of Senator Fletcher and Senator Trammell of Florida, who operated in the work.

Under the Miami amendment, the entire harbor project as recommended by the army engineers was authorized, whereas the house ordered only a part of the improvement. While the senate amendment does not authorize any additional funds over the $200,000 house item, the way will be open to have additional funds allotted out of future war department appropriations for rivers and harbors without the necessity for additional legislation.

As for the Okeechobee project, Senator Trammell succeeded in gaining a material reduction in the amount the state of Florida will be required to contribute toward the approximately $9,000,000 program. His amendment requires a state contribution of only $2,000,000.

The first sum fixed for the state's share was $4,448,000.

The present bill merely is an authorization of the several projects listed and does not carry appropriations. An appropriation bill making the funds actually available will come along later. If not at this session, then early in the session next December. All of the senate amendments on Florida projects are expected to be approved by the conference without change.

The bill also carries the amendment for widening the interoceanal canal from 75 to 100 feet between Miami and Jacksonville.

The measure now goes to the senate, where plans have been made for speedy consideration.

The measure carried $25,000,000 for public building construction and authorization for $51,000,000 to settle claims of German and Austrian nationals under awards of the mixed claims commission.

The item of $250,000 for the expenses of the enforcement commission for the next fiscal year was stricken from the bill.

TARIFF RATES DECLARED AID TO BUSINESS

Administration Champions Assert New Law Will Spur Prosperity.

MELLON-WATSON VIEWS PRESENTED

Statements Given In Answer To Attacks By Democratic Leaders.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
WASHINGTON, June 20.—Two administration champions—Secretary Mellon and Senator Watson of Indiana—came forward tonight to defend the newly-enacted Smoot-Hawley tariff law as Democrats peppered away with their assault on the legislation.

In a formal statement, the treasury secretary said the new law removes an obstacle to business recovery "by eliminating the uncertainty of the last 18 months" and makes a contribution to business stability "by its promise of more business-like revision in the future."

Over the radio, Senator Watson, the Republican leader, said the increased agricultural rates provided by the bill assured "added prosperity and increased purchasing power to a third of the people of the country."

Both Republican chiefs belittled the "gloomy prophecies" made by the opposition and argued these had been made in the past without fulfillment. Both directed pointed remarks to the protests of foreign governments. Secretary Mellon added:

"Foreign nations that do business with us would do well to remember that the all-important factor is the maintenance of the high purchasing power and standard of living of the American people."

George McCall Says:

Editor The Herald: My opponent for the position of clerk of the Criminal Court of Record, Frank Markle, as a last dying gasp of his campaign, has charged that I recently employed a non-resident of Florida to act as deputy clerk, in detriment to local, unemployed men of ability and character. This reference is made to Mr. E. M. Galbreath, a married man, who has resided in Miami for five years.

Mr. Galbreath was employed as deputy clerk by my predecessor in 1925. He held that position until the summer of 1928, when, because of the death of his little child, he found it necessary to leave Miami temporarily and return with his wife to the home of his parents in Tennessee. The child who died in 1928 was buried in Woodlawn cemetery. Before Mr. and Mrs. Galbreath were in position to return to Miami, they lost twin babies. They were brought back to Miami for burial.

Shortly after that sad event, Mrs. Hazel McCune, a widow, who had been employed in the clerk's office for 12 years as deputy, was in an automobile accident and is now and has been for four months past in Victoria hospital, suffering with a broken back. When that accident occurred it was necessary for me to immediately employ somebody to take her place. Mr. Galbreath was here without a job. He had had nearly four years' experience in the office and was a registered voter of Dade county. It was impracticable to employ an untrained man and I was glad to secure Mr. Galbreath's services. And he is as much of a Miamian today as my opponent is.

THREE-CENT TARIFF SEEN AS FORERUNNER OF PROSPERITY HERE

Fletcher Tells Kiwanians Farmers Will Deposit $6,000,000 By May 1.

The 3-cent tariff on Florida tomatoes and the tariff on other south Florida products will result in $6,000,000 being deposited in Miami banks before May 1, 1931, George S. Fletcher, farmer, told members of the Miami Kiwanis club yesterday in the McAllister Hotel.

Mr. Fletcher, a member of the club, has worked for a number of years for the passage of the tariff bill which was accomplished last week. He was given a vote of thanks by the club for this work.

Mr. Fletcher said that five years ago farmers of Dade county deposited, as the result of natural agricultural resources of the county, $8,000,000 in Miami banks. Last year the deposits from agriculture totaled less than $3,000,000. He believes that beginning November 1 farmers will begin depositing their earnings in Miami banks and will continue until his prediction is realized.

"Personally," Mr. Fletcher said, "I believe that the 3-cent tariff is the greatest thing that has ever happened to Florida. The remedy is here to prevent banks from falling and to eliminate poverty.

"We now have what God gave the mocking bird, plenty of worms, berries and fresh air; we should be as independent as the mocking bird. We in south Florida have more to be thankful for than anyone else. God and country."

MYSTERY VEIL ON MOTOR CAR DEATH LIFTED

Man Believed Burned In Indiana Is Arrested In Mobile.

FATAL ACCIDENT STORY IS TOLD

Says Automobile Upset and Broke Neck of Stranger With Him.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
MOBILE, Ala., June 20.—Harold H. Schroeder, believed for days to have been burned to death in a motor car near Indianapolis, was captured alive and well on a street here today.

After questioning at police station he confessed, according to police, that he burned the automobile in which the body of an unidentified man was found near Indianapolis May 31. He said that he did not know the man, that the motor car turned over in a ditch and broke the man's neck and that he feared he would be arrested if the body was found in his automobile.

Schroeder, owner of an automobile radiator shop here, had been blamed since his automobile was found burning in Indiana. Later, it was learned that the body in the car was not his.

He was arrested here on a vacant lot today. He told police he left Indianapolis on the way to Terre Haute and when a short distance from the former town he picked up a young man on the highway. He did not know his name, he said. Schroeder said the young man went to sleep in the automobile and that he also dozed and awoke when the motor car was going into a ditch.

Schroeder related that he saw the young man leaning forward on the floor as though his neck had been broken. Then, he said, he turned the automobile around and headed in the direction of Indianapolis. It was about 1 o'clock in the morning of May 31 and at the time he was about eight miles out of Indianapolis.

At that point, the statement continued, Schroeder got out of the motor car and set fire to it because, he said, he feared that if the man was found in the automobile with a broken neck he would have been accused of killing him.

Schroeder said he left the automobile and while walking towards Indianapolis was picked up by a man and a woman in an automobile.

The mobile man remained in Indianapolis through May 31, when he left by bus to Louisville, Nashville, Birmingham and Mobile. Schroeder, when arrested, said he had been here for one week.

A Letter From Fred Pine

EDITOR THE HERALD: In an effort to prove that I have a close relationship with Al Capone, The Miami Daily News now charges me with being a frequenter of the Capone household on Palm Island, and to sustain its contention, prints a telegram, sent collect, by T. W. (Tub) Palmer to the publisher of The News. To those who know Tub, the "collect" is characteristic.

It is true that sometime during the winter of 1928-1929 I went to the residence of Al Capone on Palm Island with T. W. (Tub) Palmer. I went at Palmer's request and as his attorney. Neither of us was acquainted with Capone. Tub introduced me; I introduced Tub and Capone introduced himself. The relationship between Palmer and me at that time was that of client and attorney, a confidential professional relationship which, until today, I was not at liberty to disclose. My business relations on that day were with Palmer and not with Capone; I represented Palmer, not Capone.

Palmer was about to lose the Columbus Hotel. He needed money, a lot of it. He asked me to go with him as his attorney, in an effort to borrow money from Capone to tide him over his financial troubles with the Columbus Hotel. We went together for that purpose. We presented the proposition to Capone. Capone was not interested in any investments here and said so promptly. We stayed a short time and left. I have never been in the Capone residence since that time. I have never stated that I was never in the Capone residence at any time. I have stated I have never had any business, professional or social relations with Capone. I now repeat that assertion. Incidentally, Tub later lost the hotel.

I have never discussed this matter before, because I am not in the habit of divulging business affairs which come to me in connection with my profession. I do not know what animated Palmer to answer the telegram of The Miami Daily News and try to place the culpability upon me, when the visit was made only in his interest. I do not know what pressure has been brought upon Palmer to induce him to take this action. He has never paid me for my services, but, knowing Tub, I have never held that against him. I do think, however, that Tub should have paid the charges on the telegram sent "collect" to The Daily News.

We have three days of this campaign remaining. The Daily News will probably be able to flush at least three more unfounded rumors in the interval.

PARTNERS KILL AN ASSAILANT

St. Louis Men Open Fire On Alleged Kidnapers.

ST. LOUIS, June 20. (AP)—Herman Kohn, 44, and William Ruthstein, 38, partners in a chain of book-making cigar stores, shot it out last night with three men, believed by them to be kidnapers, fatally wounding Oliver Honig, 28, who died today in City hospital. Honig's two accomplices escaped.

The pistol fight took place in front of Ruthstein's home. The bookmakers, in separate automobiles, emptied their pistols at the three after seeing them advance with drawn weapons.

When Honig fell, mortally wounded, his companions abandoned him and escaped in a nearby motor car.

M'CAKILL BRANDED AS AID OF PALMER

Filed Charges Against Financial Enemy of Man Now Accusing Him, Pine Says.

Fred Pine last night branded T. W. (Tub) Palmer as "just a plain liar" because of Palmer's telegram reproduced yesterday in The Daily News, which endeavored to show that Mr. Pine was an intimate of Alphonse Capone.

"I know why Tub told that lie," Mr. Pine said. "It must be that George McCaskill has him on the hip. During the tourist season of 1928-1929, Tub was about to lose his equity in the Columbus Hotel. He hired me to help him negotiate with Capone with a view to getting Capone to refinance the hotel.

"Subsequently Tub lost his interest in the hotel to S. A. Lynch, a Northern capitalist. He then had Mr. Lynch arrested for burglary. George McCaskill tried the information for Tub against Mr. Lynch. But McCaskill has never disposed of the case. Tub probably knew that if he did not help McCaskill, the case might never be disposed of. Anyway, Tub is just a plain liar.

"He came to me when he was about to lose the hotel and talked about getting Capone interested in it. He said Capone seemed to be the only person down here who had money. He offered to pay me a commission to act as his attorney in endeavoring to interest Capone in the hotel.

"He and I then went to Capone's residence. He introduced me to Capone. I introduced him to Capone. And Capone introduced himself to both of us. But the interview didn't last very long. Capone said he wasn't interested in investments down here, and that, anyway, he hadn't the money for them. We left. And Tub Palmer never paid me the fee that was coming to me for my services on that occasion."

Mr. Pine's denial of Mr. Palmer's statements was made at a political rally.

HUNT SEEKS SOLACE FOR M'CAKILL IN CAPONE WRECKAGE

County Solicitor Leaves Him Alone With Ruins of Perjury Case.

George E. McCaskill, county solicitor, who went to his office recently to take off his coat and pose behind two law books to prove that he was an eminent lawyer who found recreation in those self-same books, spent little, if any, time in his office yesterday.

The public's business, riding the county of Alphonse Capone, he left to his especially appointed assistant, Richard H. Hunt, recently, a candidate against him for the office of county solicitor, which office McCaskill now holds by appointment.

It was a battered and fattened cause that Hunt surveyed and attempted to hold to the light in a manner that might reflect a mile of credit on McCaskill and himself.

"The Capone cause is not lost, but has been strengthened," Mr. Hunt said in effect, in a statement issued as he looked over the mess. "We still have honor left."

"Politics has not and will not sway."
