

DEATH PENALTY ASKED

Prosecution Declares to Jury That Shepherd Must Die on Gallows.

By OTIS PEARBY SWIFT, United News Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Thundering a storm of bitter denunciation at William D. Shepherd and painting him as "the most patient murderer in all history" who had developed over 10 years "a foul and malignant plot to slay Billy McIntrick, Assistant State Attorney (George B. Gorman) today demanded the death penalty for the accused.

The murder was so brutal that the state demands of you gentlemen that you find the defendant guilty and sentence him to the extreme penalty of death on the gallows. Gorman shouted at the jury as he began the state's arguments for conviction.

Shepherd, who had just completed his testimony on the stand, saty dening all charges against him, accused at the time of the murder of the man's attack that way across the courtroom the wife of the defendant, Mrs. Julie Shepherd, who had just burst into uncontrolled tears.

Gorman's attack was driving, furious and intense. A large, powerful man, he faced the jury box, where 12 men covered back as he hammered on the railing surrounding the box in driving words.

Shepherd was seated barely six feet away from him, but Gorman turned his back on the accused man. After the excitement of the earlier hours when Shepherd had testified, the spectators in the crowded courtroom were hurried to emotional hysteria. They heard Gorman's vibrant indictment saw Shepherd's leading hand bowed helplessly, saw anxious countering words rather than the sobbing figure of Mrs. Shepherd. Women in the spectators' benches wept, too, at her sight.

As the man's name was called, he rose from a curtained seat of five to manhood, he drew up a will making himself chief beneficiary of the vast estate Gorman cried, "He murdered that boy and would have got the money."

It is up to you gentlemen of the jury to sentence this man to be hanged and let the money go to Billy McIntrick's flesh and blood—his own relatives.

It was when Gorman turned his face

New York Boy Will See Florida Oranges Grow

New York, June 23.

A CHILDISH desire to go south to see the oranges growing that once prompted Frederick J. Stacey, 12-year-old son of the Rev. Frederick W. Stacey, former pastor of St. James Methodist Episcopal Church, to run away from home, was realized today when the boy boarded the Clyde Line Steamer Leanne, bound for Florida.

Several months ago the lad ran away from home, and when found penniless, two days later, explained he wanted to see the oranges grow. Several newspapers made a pool to defray his expenses and invited the boy south as their guest. He will be conducted through the leading orange groves in Florida.

On the relations between Billy McIntrick and the Shepherd family that Mrs. Shepherd collapsed, Gorman's voice burned with scorn as he touched on Shepherd's statements that he loved Billy like a son.

Can Shepherd and his wife loved Billy, he said. "They loved him with a commercial love—not with the true love of father and mother."

He declared Shepherd as a villainous waster who "fastened his hooks" in the McIntrick estate and accomplished the murder of the boy in the order to assure himself a life.

Gorman, in demanding the death penalty, pointed out that the alternative punishment was life imprisonment for murder, or 14 years imprisonment for manslaughter.

SUNLIGHT AS CURE

Scientists Hold Out Fresh Hope for Victims of Disease.

NEW YORK, June 23.—New hope for victims of tuberculosis was held out today by scientists attending the 81st annual convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy.

Sunlight, properly applied, can be made the most efficient foe of the disease, Dr. William F. Baker of the Hahnemann Medical College, Philadelphia, told the National Society of Physical Therapeutics, which is meeting with the institute.

A reward of $100 to any color-blind woman who will submit to clinical observation to determine the cause of the condition was offered today by Dr. C. A. Harkness, of Chicago, a delegate to the convention.

"A color-blind woman is one of the rarest of creatures," Dr. Harkness said.

SOMETHING YOU SHOULD KNOW

Okeechobee is the "Jewel" city of that vast fertile region lying on the north shore of Florida's famous "Lake Okeechobee."

This community is destined to be the commercial center of this great agricultural territory—served by all main railroads, waterways and highways, of which Okeechobee is the terminal city.

These two new sections of Okeechobee lie in the heart of the many building activities that are being planned or are now under way here.
